Wire Glass Company Building Addition to Its Plant at Dunbar

The Pennsylvania Wire Glass Company at Dunbar is constructing an addition to its plant in Dunbar Valley and will be ready to occupy it in about three more weeks. The new building is already well under construction, all the steel work being erected. It will be 160x18 feet.

The addition means employment of approximately 25 more men, which will bring the total number employed to 210. The glass company has been operating steadily for some time.

It had been reported that the company was considering the erection of a new plant at Dunbar. This, it was said today, is not possible because of the lack of space. Recently the company purchased one acre of ground for expansion of the present plant but sufficient is not available at Dunbar for a new plant the size of the proposed one.

"I wish we could," said an official when asked if the company intended to build at Dunbar, "but there isn't enough room."

The operation of the addition to the plant will increase the output about 25 per cent.

FIREMEN CALLED WHEN ELECTRIC WIRES BURN OFF

The Fire Department was summoned twice last night, once for a blaze in a shed in the rear of the Kelly Hotel, formerly Cupp's restaurant, and the other as the result of electric lighting wires being down in West Gibson avenue.

The wires went down about 10 o'clock. Just what caused them to break off could not be determined although it is possible they blew together and the arc formed burned them both. Sparks from the ends of the wires as they lay on the ground caused excitement in the neighborhood and a fire alarm was sounded. The West Penn was notified and a repair crew restored service in about 40 minutes. During this period the north and east ends of the city, and some houses along South Pittsburg street were without lights.

The fire in the shed is believed to have been of incendiary origin as indications showed it started on the outside. The alarm was sounded about 10:35 o'clock. Furniture stored in the shed was damaged. The building was badly gutted by the flames.

TECHNICALITY SAVES LIFE OF JOE VALOTTA

By United Press.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 17. — Joseph Valotta, convicted of two killings, was given his freedom by Federal Judge Thomson today on the grounds that he had been tried for both crimes before the same jury and at the same time, thus violating his constitutional rights.

Valotta was returned to jail, however, to await the outcome of the State's appeal to the United States Supreme Court

If the appeal fails Valotta is a free man through a technicality of the law after having been duly convicted of the double murder. A federal statute prevents a man from being tried a second time on the same murder charge.

Valotta was convicted of slaying Thomas Hopkins and Patrolman Edward Couch during trouble among striking railroad shopmen on October 30, 1922. He was granted a stay of execution five times

WEST PENN ENGINEER TO SUPERVISE ITS NEW DEPARTMENT

E. B. Glazier to Have Charge of Industrial Extension Campaign.

TO SEEK CO-OPERATION

With Local Chambers of Commerce and Other Civic Bodies With a View to Encourage Location, Enlargement, Diversification Industry.

The official announcement of the appointment of an engineer to have charge of the movement of the West Penn System to attract new industries to the territory served by it in Western Pennsylvania and adjoining states, issued from the main offices of the company in Pittsburg today, says:

"It will not require a great stretch of the imagination to visualize the manifold benefits that are sure to accrue from an activity of this nature, creating as it will, employment for more people, an increased demand for living quarters, food, clothing, fuel and other necessities of life.

"While the primary object of the movement is to attract additional manufacturing plants, a specialized effort will be made to secure those of a diversified nature. The wisdom of this plan will be plainly evident, as it will eliminate to a certain extent, the possibilities of a partial or complete shut down of all industries at one and the same time.

"The close proximity of raw materials, such as steel, glass, chemicals, oils, etc.; economy of fuel and power; abundance of labor; unexcelled transportation facilities by rail and water and the nearness to markets, should prove unusually attractive to manufacturers now located in sections of the country that do not offer these combined advantages."

"E. B. Glazier, industrial extension engineer of the West Penn System, who will have personal supervision of this work, has had a wide and varied experience in conducting community boosting campaigns in various parts of the United States, and will be a valuable asset to communities seeking additional industries.

"In conducting his activities, Mr. Glazier will confer with the boards of trades, chambers of commerce, other civic bodies and have them cooperate with him and furnish statistics and information regarding the particular advantages they can offer to concerns seeking new locations for plants."

Conditions in the Near East were set forth and Rev Krikorian paid compliment to the United States for what this nation has done in relief work.

The attendance prize was won by Correll J. Poole. It was awarded by John L. Gans, managing editor of The Courier, and was a year's subscription for this paper.

New Corporation Seeks To Rehabilitate Former Dunbar Manganese Plant

Bank Connections in Connellsville and Uniontown Initial Step.

ADVANTAGES SET FORTH

Recently when announcement was made of the re-chartering of the American Manganese Manufacturing Company under the name of the Dunbar Corporation and of the intention to produce pig iron instead of manganese, General Manager R. M. Marshall announced that a statement covering some phases of the new concern would be issued. Mr. Marshall has sent The Courier the following:

"The Dunbar Corporation is the outgrowth of the purchase by the bondholders of the American Manganese Manufacturing Company under the receivers' sale. A new company was incorporated November 28 with the following election of officers:

"President, William P. Gest, president of the Fidelity Trust Company, Philadelphia; vice-president and general manager, R. M. Marshall, Dunbar; treasurer, Edward S. Dunn, president of the Philadelphia Warehouse Company, Philadelphia; secretary, William E. Arnold, 325 Chestnut street, Philadelphia; assistant treasurer, Reginald Palmer, Uniontown.

"It is the ultimate aim of this new organization to re-finance and rehabilitate the Dunbar plant. The first effort will be to finance the necessary reconstruction work to put the plant in a competitive position with other blast furnaces in the country, from a standpoint of efficient operation. The problem of financing the actual operation is thus simplified. The new company has opened bank connections locally with the idea of bringing the people of Connellsville and Uniontown in closer touch with the plant's possibilities. Formerly, all banking connections were in Philadelphia and there was no endeavor made to take advantage of local financial institutions and create local interest in the plant.

"The plant comprises two 350-ton blast furnaces, 110 Semet Solvay by-product ovens, 1,000 acres of developed coal land, unlimited sand rock quarries and a sand mill with a capacity of 100 tons a day. In addition, the company owns all the stock of

Constitution of Hospital Auxiliary Adopted by Body

At a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Connellsville Hospital Association Tuesday afternoon in the Women's Culture Club room of the Carnegie Free Library a constitution and by-laws were adopted.

Mrs. Fred Frisbee, president, had charge of the meeting and Miss Helen Armstrong, corresponding secretary, acted in the absence of Mrs. Louis Shrallow, recording secretary. Mrs. J. J. Thompson read the constitution and by-laws, drawn up by a committee composed of Mrs. Thompson, chairman; Mrs. Sol Goldstone, Mrs. Lucille Wild, Mrs. A. I. Daniels, Mrs. W. K. Allen and Mrs. M. B. Pryce. Following a discussion of the report a motion was made that the constitution and by-laws be adopted, the only change being in the name of the auxiliary which was changed to the Woman's Auxiliary to the Connellsville Hospital Association instead of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Local Hospital, as recommended in the report of the committee

The membership dues will be $1 a year. The auxiliary will meet on the second Tuesday afternoon of each month. At each meeting the president will appoint a committee of two to visit the hospital. The executive committee will be composed of all the officers, excepting the 23 vice-presidents, and the chairman of the permanent committees to be appointed by the president.

A committee composed of Mrs. H. George May, Mrs William J. Bailey and Mrs. Meyer Aaron will present a letter, written by the president, to which meets on Thursday night, in which meets on Tuesday night, informing the members that he women of Connellsville and vicinity have formed an auxiliary to their organization, the object being to cooperate with them in their work.

A motion was made and carried that charter members of the auxiliary will be composed of all persons who were in attendance at any of the three meetings held.

Mrs. Frisbee announced that she had visited the hospital and on conferring with Miss Bessie Bigam, superintendent, she had learned that the hospital was in need of bedding. The auxiliary decided to buy a bolt of sheeting and members will make sheets, the size of which are 72x90, for the hospital for Christmas. A collection was taken for this purpose following the meeting and $15.77 was received. The president appointed Miss Eleanor Soisson as chairman of the fund and any person who would like to contribute to this worthy cause is asked to leave the donation at the home of Miss Soisson, 122 West Peach street, by Friday at noon.

Many women who from the beginning have displayed such a great interest in the auxiliary and pledged their support were in attendance at the meeting and indications are that every woman will do her part toward securing a new hospital for Connellsville, the main object of the auxiliary. Some were absent yesterday because of illness in their home or being out of town.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon, January 13.

GOMPERS' PASSING A CRITICAL POINT IN LABOR HISTORY

Successor May Lack His Skill in Maintaining Cohesion of the A. F. of L.

FORCEFUL PERSONALITY

And Political Cunning Enabled Dead Leader to Restrain His Lieutenants And Hold Radicals Within Limits; Can Another Accomplish as Much?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1924, by The Courier

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Will the policies of Samuel Gompers live after him?

American labor's answer to that question does not depend so much on who is chosen as president of the American Federation, but upon the circumstances both political and economic which in the last four years weighed so heavily on the veteran leader.

Few people know of the inside politics of the American Federation of Labor, its clash of viewpoints between moderates and extremists, and few people know that it was by sheer force of personality that Samuel Gompers restrained his own lieutenants. Ever since the war the Gompers policy has been one of prevention and when the Federation endorsed La-Follette it was Gompers who thought that very act would find its own remedy. For he was against the organization of a labor party in politics, though he was being constantly pressed from within to join with the railroad brotherhoods in an effort to wield the maximum political influence.

In recent years, Mr. Gompers found the brotherhoods a powerful ally but a somewhat vexatious one because the policies of the two groups frequently were opposite. Samuel Gompers felt more the need of presenting a united front for labor than to reconcile even fundamental differences between the brotherhoods and the American Federation of Labor.

The problem that now comes up may affect the entire labor situation for years to come. Will this cohesive power be held together, or will the labor groups be divided and even work against each other? Capital would profit by such a situation even as labor would lose. Yet the currents of dissension are strong and only a Gompers can keep labor united. Even a Gompers, however, has to have a favorable atmosphere.

The last year saw the Gompers policy of harmony tried to the utmost. For the sake of harmony inside the ranks, he agreed to permit the American Federation of Labor to endorse the LaFollette candidacy. He had the cunning of a practical politician and even those who bitterly criticized gold pencil.

Mary Elizabeth Smutz, 17, senior, 205 East Cedar avenue; prize, gold pencil.

C. C. Gallagher, chairman of the local committee, has announced that arrangements have been made to distribute the prizes tomorrow morning, at the chapel exercises in the High School. C. V. Doherty, chairman of the Home Lighting Contest in southwestern Pennsylvania, will address the pupils and assist in the distribution of prizes.

It is doubtful if any other similar contest held in the schools of this district has aroused so much keen competition and good natured rivalry as the one recently brought to a successful termination. Of the more than 2,000 pupils in the Seventh and Eighth grades, high school and parochial school eligible to compete in the contest, slightly more than 1,000 entered, a number of whom handed in finished essays of a very creditable nature.

The local committee composed of C. C. Gallagher, chairman superintendent of the West Penn Power Company; W. J. Bailey, oculist; John L. Gans, editor of The Courier; Jesse Ridgway, electrical contractor; B. E. Smith, superintendent of schools, and Dr Katharine Wakefield, health director of the Connellsville schools, takes this opportunity to publicly express its appreciation to the local school authorities and teachers, the electrical dealers and contractors and the press for their hearty co-operation and assistance in helping to make the contest a phenomenal success.

The essay judges were John L. Gans, Dr. Katharine Wakefield and C. C. Gallagher. When it is considered that the work of the pupils was judged, not only for a knowledge of the lessons; but for originality of ideas and clarity of language, thoroughness and neatness of work, an idea may be had of the huge task the judges assumed.

T. D. Mahoney, commercial manager of the West Penn System who was vice regional director of the contest in Western Pennsylvania, has extended his congratulations to the local committee and the contestants for the fine showing they have made.

The winning essays have been forwarded to the judges in New York, to be entered in the International Contest for the $15,000 electrical home and 10 college scholarships, in competition with those of pupils in schools throughout the United States and Canada.

From the excellence of the work submitted, the local judges are of the unanimous opinion that at least one of the international prizes will be awarded to a pupil in this district.

New Company Seeks To Rehabilitate Dunbar Furnace

the New Haven & Dunbar Railroad Company, with a trackage of 12 miles, the Dunbar Electric Company, with over 500 subscribers, the Dunbar Water Company, with two reservoirs of 4,000,000 gallons capacity and two and one-half miles of 12-inch water line. The company owns 3,600 acres of timber land and extensive bluestone ledges, both of which are in the process of being developed.

"The history of the plant should offer no criterion of the possibilities in the future," the statement reads. "The first point to be considered in the operation of a blast furnace is its location relative to the assembling of raw materials and the demand for the finished product within a reasonable shipping radius. The plant having its own fuel supply has a saving of $2.27 freight charges per net ton over the merchant furnaces located in the Valley taking their coke from the Connellsville region. The Valley furnaces have a saving of 48 cents a ton on iron ore from the lakes, being equivalent to 86 cents a ton of pig iron, showing a net saving at Dunbar in the assembly of coke and ore of $1.11 per ton of pig iron. Dunbar serves 101 foundries and steel plants within a shipping radius of $1.64 freight rate of Dunbar. These consumers normally use 76,000 tons of pig iron a month, which forms a very attractive market for Dunbar's production of 10,000 tons per month.

"It seems obvious, therefore, that with the proper financing and management Dunbar should again become a substantial factor in the merchant pig iron industry. It is with this idea in mind that the present administration is attacking the problem and expects before long to have Dunbar perform its part in the commercial activities of the region."

Mayor Takes Stand On Fake Solicitors

Mayor Mitchell this morning said that there will be no canvassing or soliciting in this city by any person or persons without the approval of the city officials. "There have been numerous complaints of 'phony' business men and in order to protect the people we must do this," the mayor said.

MODESTY HAS ITS GEOGRAPHY

Women of Different Lands Vary as to What Is Proper.

Washington, D. C.—"A Chinese woman would not think of exposing to the public gaze her bound feet, a lady of Yap would never be seen promenading down the mud-hut boulevard of her native village without her woven necklace of hibiscus leaves though her grass skirt was her only garment, and the Mohammedan woman of a few years ago would not be seen without her veil.

"Modesty has a geography all its own," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society, in connection with the winter fashion decrees from Paris.

Keep Finger Tips Hidden.

"Alexander von Humboldt, who traveled extensively over the world known in the Eighteenth century, recorded in his travels that some of the central Asian peoples are reluctant to let any one see their finger tips. A traveler who visited the Alaska coast, in the same century, found that native women, after he had persuaded them to remove an ornament which made the lower part of the mouth protrude two or three inches, were greatly embarrassed.

"It seems paradoxical that clothes originated out of the desire for ornamentation rather than for warmth. Arabs of the hot deserts of Arabia and Africa are fully swathed in flowing garments, which only in part serve as protection from the heat, while the Patagonians, from the coldest portion of the South American continent, wear only the skin of one animal as a kind of windshield. Our word 'modesty,' came from the latin 'modus,' meaning measure or standard, and the clothing which was customarily worn therefore became our first conception of what was the proper or modest thing to wear. Each of the world's peoples consequently has its own standards.

"The explorers who first came to American shores found that the Carib Indian women, who simply wore embroidered girdles, often appeared without this single garment, but they were never so rendss as to forget to paint their bodies with annatto, a red or yellowish-red dye. This constituted their idea of womanly modesty. One explorer reported in his journals that a woman of a tribe in Brazil, whose custom it was to go unclothed, had in some mysterious manner acquired a petticoat which she put on for special occasions, but it seemed to have the effect of making her thoroughly ill at ease.

"The Chinese women are among the most demure and modest in the world, but they wear trousers! And, furthermore, some of them would be horrified at the immodesty of a skirt.

"The beaches of American seaside resorts would pain the fine sensibilities of the Sumatra and Celebes savages who consider it highly improper to expose the knees.

The Snaggle-Tooth Mode.

"In one of the New Hebrides islands in the Pacific, a married woman can be modest only by being snaggle-toothed. Part of the wedding ceremony consists of relieving the lady of her two middle incisors by smashing them with a rock.

"Some of the Mohammedan women of the Sahara region will tear off their last garment to cover their faces upon the approach of a stranger. The demure Breton maiden wears a cunning little close cap, because it would be dreadfully immodest to uncover her hair. Sturdy German peasant women paddle around their homes and fields in dresses that just escape their knees, but they would be shocked at the idea of wearing a dress which was open at the neck.

"In the Tonga islands a man would consider himself thoroughly unprepared to appear before his fellow mortals unless he was tattooed, and the Marquesans follow much the same practice, the amount of the decoration varying with the rank of the individual, but the legs are always tattooed from ankle to thigh. Warriors have themselves done in geometrical designs with squares and inverted triangles on their faces, and the women are ornamented in patterns which resemble fine lace work. Some of them wear loin cloths and girdles of tapa cloth, a fabric made from the bark of the breadfruit tree.

"An American lady of 1924 is not selfconscious at exposing her arms and shoulders in the evening, but she would be shocked at wearing a decollete gown to breakfast or lunch. Our demure grandmothers, who represent to us the personifications of modesty, wore their sleeveless and neckless dresses all day."

Paris Men Hire Airplane to Get to Their Offices

Paris.—The air is the only traffic area in Paris that is not badly congested nowadays, and four business men of St. Denis, the northeastern industrial section, who live in the south western residential section, have combined in hiring an airplane to make the seven-mile trip between their homes and offices. Neither by automobile, subway nor autobus, they say, can they get across Paris in less than an hour, while by air it is a ten-minute jump.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, DEC. 17, 1924.

GIVING MOMENTUM TO THE HOSPITAL MOVEMENT.

Attendance at the meeting of the Connellsville Hospital Association, to be held in the Kiwanis Club rooms tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, is not restricted to persons who have in any way been identified with the movement, either as original members of the association or of the Central Trades and Labor Council which has taken action indicating the willingness of the crafts in the city to cooperate in achieving the objects of the hospital organization.

Instead, every citizen of the community who realizes the serious situation which is resulting from the lack of adequate and modern hospital facilities, is urged to be present in order that they may show their interest in the efforts that are in progress with a view to supplying our present most pressing need.

This is a proposition which cannot be carried on by a few persons, no matter how capable they may be as organizers and directors of a public movement, or how industriously they may apply themselves to the work in hand. It is an occasion requiring "team work" in all that that terms implies. Without willing and hearty cooperation little, or at best very slow, progress will be made. And that cooperation must be given by everybody, not alone those who have been accustomed to be invested with leadership in similar undertakings. The humblest citizen can help, their presence at the meeting tomorrow night being evidence of their desire to do something more than to add the weight of numbers to the impetus the proposition makes at this time.

The organization of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Hospital Association has served to direct attention to the need of going ahead. The ladies comprising this organization have entered into it with a fine spirit and they can be depended upon to keep prominently before the community the fact that they are functioning. It is now up to the men to match this activity by their own in order that the proper momentum be given to the movement as a whole, and that we can show ourselves equal to the task, even if it is one of very large proportions.

WAGE SCALE RESTORATION.

Every advance in wages of the workers in the Coke Region is always hailed with satisfaction on part of the employes and the business interests which in large part depend upon the prosperity of the region for the measure of their own success. Among the coke operators themselves there is sometimes a somewhat different feeling, arising from the conditions prevailing in the trade.

The history of the region has at all times given proof of the willingness of the operators to go the limit in the matter of maintaining wages at the highest level of any beehive coke making region in the world. In following this policy they have never had to be asked to increase wages, voluntarily doing so whenever the state of the trade warranted such action being taken. When it became absolutely necessary to reduce wages, in order that it might be possible to resume or to continue operation of their plants, a restoration of the former scales has been made as promptly thereafter as possible.

During the year now nearing its close trade conditions have been more unsatisfactory than for several years, demand for coke having fallen off sharply and to the lowest point since 1921 and the price range being below that of the year named. Under the circumstances the merchant operators, which have to depend upon the general market for their orders—instead of having steady buyers within their own official families, like the H. C. Frick Coke Company—have found business hard to get even at prices which represent little or no profit, when all the factors entering into the cost of production were taken into account. In many instances it was not possible to make coke without incurring a heavy loss on every ton produced without first paring down the wage scale. This has always been done with the tacit agreement and understanding that as soon as the price of coke advanced sufficiently proportionate increases would be made in wages.

The revival of the coke trade which has been in progress since election has thus far been confined more strictly to enlargement of production than to enhancement of prices. There have been several advances in the latter but even on the basis at which contracts for the first quarter have been closed, the price to be realized on the shipments after the new year begins will still be materially less than the average when the Frick scale of September 1, 1920 was in effect, or when the reductions made by the scales of May 16 and August 21, 1921 were restored by the scale of August 23, 1922.

From this point of view a return to the scale of September 1, 1920, which is essentially the same as the scale of August 23, 1922, is regarded by many merchant producers as premature. It has been their intention from the day they made reductions from the last named scale to reinstate it in all particulars as soon as the price of coke had advanced sufficiently to justify such action. Although that time has not yet arrived the merchant producers have not hesitated to take step with the Reiney interests, which took the initiative in restoring the September 1, 1920 scale. They will, in consequence, be obliged to seek an increase in the price at which they sell their product and this may be less easy of accomplishment than appears.

While the demand is larger and is growing it by no means approaches the capacity of the region, hence consumers do not recognize the necessity to bid up prices to the extent that would be required if the demand were greater or more active. At the same time merchant producers of beehive coke are confronted with keener competition from the by-product makers of coke who, at the prevailing low prices at which they can buy raw coal for their plants, have a decided advantage as compared with operators of the beehive ovens, over and above the advantages accruing from the sale of the by-products by the former.

From the present outlook it does not appear that an increase in wages will tend to stimulate a material increase in demand or price. Furnacemen as a rule do not relish the idea of increasing their own costs of manufacture without prospect or assurance that they can make a corresponding increase in the price at which they sell pig iron.

Considered from those angles it becomes apparent why the merchant operators of the Connellsville Region are not enthusing over the prospect of adding $1.00 or more to the producing costs per ton, through a restoration of war-time wages when peace-time prices rule for their output. They will, however, bravely meet the situation and keep faith, as they have always done, in respect to giving their employes the benefit of trade conditions which make it possible to obtain a profit.

There is very great probability that some of the smaller producers of beehive coke will not be able to continue in operation, and certainly not in case they cannot realize higher prices for coke than now prevail or seem in prospect.

It is hoped, however, that the situation will work out satisfactorily and that the prosperity which is just beginning to make headway will not be halted in its coming, but that both employers and employes will share in its benefits and that these will in turn be passed on to the business and industrial interests of the Coke Region and all profit thereby.

A Tribute to the Telephone Girl

Cleveland Iron Trade.

The idea of the telephone girl as unlovely and exasperating creature is one of the quaintest of contemporary illusions. Her patience and urbanity in the face of insolence, wise cracks and excessive expectations seems to me absolutely saintlike. It is superhuman.

To be blamed by loud voiced strangers for errors not one's own, to be held culpable for all the fallibility of man-made machine, to be spoken to sternly by office boys and bootleggers, to be talked to habitually like a fish wife and yet always to reply with a sweet "Number, please?" "Thank you," or "I'll give you information"—that is a brand of self-control and miraculous civility that is wholly amazing to an ordinary mortal.

We used to send children to school to learn "manners." The telephone companies seem far more successful than the ordinary schools in driving home lessons in urbanity. Instead of sending girls to "finishing" schools, perhaps it would be better to let them be telephone operators for a while.

Those Lee Coins

Harrisburg Telegraph.

One can understand the feelings of Grand Army veterans who protest against the issue of Government coins bearing likenesses of Lee and Jackson to be sold at premium to finance the erection of a gigantic memorial to the "Lost Cause."

Soldiers who fought for the Union believe an issue of this kind would put a premium on disloyalty on the actions of those who devoted their lives to an effort not only to destroy it but to maintain on this Continent an element of slavery.

Nor will it do to say that these old soldiers are narrow in their views or that they should be willing to forgive and to forget. The truth is the North has forgotten the Civil War, as an element of disagreement, but that the South continues to think about it and magnify it.

Lee is respected by all Americans as a man and a soldier. Jackson is held in similar esteem. But the fact remains they were chevaliers of the United States Government and cannot be recognized otherwise without arousing the antagonism of those who gave their all in an effort to put a stop to the rebellion they started. Instead of arousing controversies of the kind both North and South would do well to see there is no opportunity for them. They are bad for the country.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

OF COURSE THERE'S A SANTA CLAUS.

Of course there is a Santa Claus
Who finds the chimney to the hearth
Of fellowship and kindly mirth,
And tumbles down from humpler spheres
To light with love all weary eyes!
He finds the smoky chimney for
Black with the selfish deeds we do,
And down he comes and hearts' display
Their love for all on Christmas Day.

Of course there is a Santa Claus
Who comes on Christmas eve and takes
The selfishness which struggle makes,
The hate of failure, and the frown
Of careless toiling in the town,
The petty malice and the sneer
Which mark our labors through the year
And leaves us big enough to say,
"To all a Merry Christmas Day!"

Of course there is a Santa Claus
Or we should wake on Christmas Day
In just the same old selfish way,
We'd make no gifts our love to show,
There's be no gifts from those we know,
The day would pass like all the days
The lips that sugar would scorn to praise,
And this old world would seldom see
How generous we long to be.

Of course there is a Santa Claus
His spirit moves us once a year
To light the world with smiles of cheer;
To wish for all who pass along
A life time free from hurt and wrong,
The joy of peace the boon of health,
A purse that holds enough of wealth
And makes of us in some strange way
Good fellows all on Christmas Day.

MOTHERS
AND THEIR CHILDREN

An Educating Game.

One Mother Says:

I want my children to be alert in all the senses, so we have games that give practice to each of them. One that cultivates the sense of hearing they enjoy particularly. When neighboring children come in, all but one child is blindfolded. The others sit in a circle while the leader silently carries a little bell into some remote part of the room or into an adjoining room. In a few minutes he tinkles the bell and silently returns. The first child who tells the location from which the sound came may be "it" next time.

Schools Will Close Thursday for the Holiday Vacation

Tomorrow afternoon marks the close of schools in Connellsville for the Christmas holidays. Sessions will be resumed on Monday, January 5, giving two weeks and three days' vacation.

The final exercise in the schools will be the program to be presented tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium by students of the fifth and sixth grades, assisted by one group of first graders. Christmas carols will be sung. There will be about 100 voices in the chorus which has been trained by Miss Helen Claybaugh, supervisor of music in the elementary grades. The public is invited to attend.

The Christmas vacation period will begin in the Dunbar Township schools at the same time. Friday and Saturday of this week will be devoted to the first half of the sixth annual combined Institute of the Connellsville City and Dunbar Township School Districts, which opens at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Stone to Probe Federal Paroles

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—A general investigation of the entire federal prison parole system is about to be undertaken by Attorney General Stone as a result of revelations of conditions in Atlanta prison which led to the removal of three officials there.

Stone has no evidence of irregularities or unwise parole practices at other prisons which include Leavenworth, Kan., and McNeil Island, Wash., but as the question has arisen at Atlanta he intends to go over the entire situation.

Farm Calendar

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College

Keeping Farm Records—January 1, 1925 is a good day to start a farm bookkeeping set. Knowing where the dollars come and go may mean the difference between success and failure in 1925. Your county agent has record books, and the Pennsylvania State College has a correspondence course of five lessons in farm bookkeeping that will help you get started.

Order Chicks Early—The buying of baby chicks for next spring's delivery is similar in one respect to Christmas shopping. "Do it early" is a good slogan and its application may save you a disappointment. Many a poultryman has been forced to accept later-hatched chicks than he desired just because he did not place his order with his hatchery at an early date.

Growing Deciduous Shrubs—Many deciduous shrubs can be grown from cuttings taken at this time of the year. Cuttings should be made with a sharp knife. They should be about six inches long and should have from four to six buds The cuttings may be tied into bundles and set in moist sand in a cool cellar In the spring they can be set out in rows about six inches apart in one corner of the vegetable garden. Plant at least two buds below the surface of the ground.

Cow Testing Tells—Guesswork does not tell which cows of the herd pay and which ones are boarders. Cow testing records compel every cow to stand up and face the music. Only those cows that can give a good account of themselves deserve to accept the hospitality of any dairy farmer

Cokers Win First Game, South Brownsville Being Victim; Score Is 35-19

Team Looks More Like a Basketball Combination in Its Third Attempt.

PLAY AGAIN THIS WEEK

Playing at South Brownsville last night, where the new gymnasium at that place was used for the first time for a basketball game, the Connellsville High School team showed very much improved form and took "Soup" Henry's quintet across by a score of 35-19.

Captain "Bud" O'Donnell was the outstanding star of the Coker quintet and his boys fell in behind him to help keep the game safe. It was the first victory out of three starts for Connellsville and the decisiveness of it demonstrates clearly that the Cokers are not entirely to be considered an easy mark this season. Van Gordor was another who seemed to find himself last night. He scored five field goals.

"Newt" Stillwagon was in the game at center and then after the tip-off took his position as a standing guard. The new combination seemed to work successfully.

The score last night was the highest registered by the locals in any game yet this season. The boys have been keeping pace with all their opponents in the matter of getting goals from the floor but it is in foul shooting that they lack ability. Once this short-coming is remedied and the team can make the free ones count, it will be able to give a good account of itself anywhere.

CASEY CLUB WINS FIRST GAME FROM MEDICAL QUINTET

The Casey Club, playing its first game last night against the Medical Detachment, got away to a fine start and showed up well in its initial appearance before the public. The team won, 38-27.

On the Casey line-up were the veterans, "Pike" Henry, "Billy" Prichard and "Buck" Lowney. Dowling and Harper rounded out the personnel of the team.

"Mickey" McCormick, former High School forward, stood out in last night's game and Cunningham made his presence felt. McCormick will meet the Caseys later when, as a member of the Unity Fraternity team, he will play in the County Basketball League.

TROTTER FIVE IN SECOND GAME WITH DICKERSON RUN "Y"

The Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play at Trotter Friday evening, meeting the fast Trotter Five Horsemen in the second battle of the season for both contingents. In the inaugural tilt, the Trotter team won by a 36-23 score. Both teams have been working each evening and a hard battle is assured.

The "Y" team is to elect a captain before the first of next month but no specific date has been announced.

PERRY TOWNSHIP CAGERS AT WEST NEWTON FRIDAY

The Perry Township High School basketball teams will play at West Newton Friday evening. The girl teams of both schools will play the preliminary battle while the varsity squads clash in the main attraction card. This will be the second game for the Perry outfits. Last Saturday, the girls were defeated by the Alumni but the varsity squad scored a victory over the graduates.

Cuddy DeMarco Hands Philippine Champion Lacing at Johnstown

Cuddy DeMarco, Charleroi idol, who is billed to fight Chris Newton of Toronto, Canada on January 31 in Slavish Hall, West Side, won a judges decision over Pedro Campo, Philippine lightweight champion, last evening at Johnstown.

DeMarco seemed to be toying with his opponent during the greatest part of the 10 round battle. The Charleroi pug had things his way throughout. He was given the verdict in eight rounds and the other two were draws.

Uniontown High School, a member of the W. P. I. A. League this season, has had the "gall" to order uniforms which will be appropriate when that team goes, as it plans, to Chicago next March as state champion of Pennsylvania. The jerseys have big keystones on them. Uniontown will never recover if its team strikes a snag and fails to get near the top.

Hornsby Great Fielder

Rogers Hornsby is wearing the mantle that Hans Wagner tossed aside in the National league when he retired several years ago, writes H. G. Salsinger in the Detroit News. Hornsby is the logical successor to Wagner. Gradually the playing value of Hornsby is becoming established. He has been a star for several years, but because of his hitting, his fielding was overlooked.

George Burns Never Banished by Umpire

George Burns, outfielder, who passed out of the National league when released by the Cincinnati Reds, has a record of never having been banished by an umpire in the 12 years he was a big leaguer, 10 years with the Giants and 2 with the Reds.

In forwarding to Burns his unconditional release, President August Herrmann wrote:

"I desire to express my appreciation of your services to the Cincinnati club. They have always been more than satisfactory, and I wish you the greatest success in the future."

Sophomores Score Whitewash Win Over Freshmen at Dunbar

The Sophomore dribblers at the Dunbar Township High School scored a whitewash victory yesterday during noon intermission while clashing in an interclass game with the Freshmen. The yearlings were unable to make a foul or a field goal while the second year men scored 10 points.

The Seniors are leading the classes in the annual battle for supremacy. The upper class has yet to suffer a defeat.

The results of the games played to date are as follows:

Boys' teams:
Juniors 7, Sophomores.
Seniors 24, Freshmen 1.
Juniors 19, Freshmen 4.
Juniors 11, Sophomores 12.
Seniors 23, Juniors 16.
Juniors 19, Sophomores 10.
Sophomores 10, Freshmen 0.
Girl teams:
Seniors 22, Juniors 4.

Sports Notes.

A Uniontown paper, speaking of Connellsville's victory over South Brownsville, endeavors to disparage it, saying that South Brownsville, because of graduations last June, was compelled to send a green team on the floor. It forgets that Connellsville has just one veteran left—Captain O'Donnell. The five others who were the leading figures in the Coker championship line-up have all gone via the graduation route.

The countyseat basketball team will play its first game tomorrow night. Fairmont High School will be the opponent. In the W. P. I. A. League Uniontown opens on Friday, January 9, at Scottdale. Connellsville goes to Uniontown the following Tuesday.

Walter Schmidt, veteran catcher for the Pittsburg Pirates, has been given his unconditional release. Schmidt was getting $12,000 a year, the highest paid catcher in the game. It is felt that this large salary, which he would not permit to be cut, was responsible for his release and is one reason why no other club has grabbed him.

The annual football banquet of the Redstone Township High School will be held Thursday night.

Peace between Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and Ban Johnson, president of the American League, was expected to be made at the big baseball conference to be held in Chicago today.

PERRY FLOOR TEAM WINS OPENER WITH ALUMNI BY 22-20

PERRYOPOLIS, Dec. 17.—The Perryopolis basketball team opened its 1924-1925 season Saturday evening with the Perryopolis Alumni as the opponents. The game was played before a large crowd of fans, who came out to see what the boys looked like. Some of last year's team have developed into school teachers, so new ones had to be put on the team and from all appearances Perry will have a strong outfit this season.

The game was well contested throughout the four periods, neither team having a decided advantage. The high school boys were outweighed, but in spite of the strong Alumni defense, hung up a 22-20 victory. The Alumni team was composed of former Perry stars such as the Edwards brothers and Reinke, guard of the 1923 team.

The line-up:

P. H. S.		Alumni.
Buttermore	F	Edwards
Blair	F	H Blair
Daughman	C	Edwards
Hixenbaugh	G	Reinke
A. Martin	G	Thrasher

As it was the first game of the season Coach Bonbush substituted freely during the entire game.

Mrs. S. W. Bryan was in Connellsville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong are visiting relatives at Elwood City.

THE WOMAN ON THE JURY"—Showing at the Soisson is a First National picture featuring an all star cast

Generally the cast of a picture-play consists of six to ten principals but in "The Woman on the Jury" there are eighteen players whose names are familiar to all patrons of motion picture theatres This huge cast of brilliant actors and actresses is but one of the many reasons why "The Woman on the Jury" has been hailed as one of the season's masterpieces

Sylvia Breamer, who is fast ascending the ladder to stardom is featured in the production, the remainder of the players in it including such popular favorites as Henry B Walthall Lew Cody Frank Mayo Bessie Love Mary Carr, Robert Bosworth Myrtle Stedman Roy Stewart, Ford Sterling Jean Hersholt, Arthur Lubin, Stanton Heck, Fred Warren Arthur S Hull Rowpie King J Edward Davis and Leo White

The Orpheum

"THE ENEMY SEX" featuring Betty Compson Paramount star provides splendid entertainment today at the Orpheum

Playing the role of "Dodo" Baxter a girl who lives by her wits, Betty Compson illustrates the point of her contention in "The Enemy Sex" two men visit her unexpectedly She has just made a pile of all her marketable belongings and is starting for the pawn-shop She tells them it is her birthday and that the things on the table are gifts She intimates that she thinks they are mean not to have brought presents The pair driven by fear which Miss Compson claims is common to most men present her with the engagement rings they have just purchased for their fiancees

"It is the psychological niceties of this nature that pictures succeed or fail" says Betty Compson who is supported in "The Enemy Sex" by Percy Marmount Kathlyn Williams Huntly Gordon and Sheldon Lewis

The Arcade

Three acts of what can happen when six people live two by two in three apartments in the crowded confines of a fashionable apartment house when the over sociability of a pretty young wife entangles them all in an unwelcome neighborliness constitutes the plot of "Twin Beds" which the Ella Kramer players offer to the patrons of the Arcade Theatre today for the last time

"Twin Beds" the wholesomest of farces and the most continuously amusing earned its unprecedent popularity as much by virtue of its deft characterization—a rare quality in farces—as by that of its witty lines surprising slang and cumulatively thrilling situations

The people whose destinies it concerns are all distinct social types familiar incalculably amusing and refreshingly delineated The Signora Monti an ex-music hall singer who has had the foresight to marry an Italian tenor whom she found singing in a Brooklyn cabaret and elevated him to the $2 000 a night class in the Metropolitan introduces a scintillant line every minute trying to keep him in the path of virtue

MOUNT PLEASANT SPORTSMEN RAISE PUBLICITY FUND

Over $500 Collected in Few Minutes to Boost $25,000,000 Bond Issue.

CODE CHANGES URGED

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 17.—The Mount Pleasant Hunting and Fishing Club on Monday evening circulated a petition asking for small contributions to put before the people the $25,000,000 bond issue, with which to purchase and put to work all available wild lands, about 8,500,000 acres of which is now lying idle, furnish public recreation grounds forever, provide better fishing, hunting, boating and swimming, protect the water supply of the State, furnish cover for the rapidly increasing wild life, furnish a perpetual and rapidly increasing asset to the State, pay for itself in timber at the rate of $25,000,000 per year at the end of 50 years, assure posterity an ample timber supply, be legally safeguarded in every manner, and to be spent at a rate not to exceed $3,000,000 in any one year.

In a very few minutes $515 had been contributed by the men at the meeting, who heartily approve of this movement.

Changes in the game code were brought up. The association will recommend the following changes in the code to the Game Commission: Cutting down the number of men as well as deer to a camp, say four instead of six. It was brought out at the meeting that in Warren county recently a party of hunters from near here hunted 33 in unison. They did not stay in one place but met each day, at a given place and hunted from there and bagged eight deer before they knew how many they really had killed.

The association will also suggest a special big game license fee of not more than $5; a non-resident license fee of $30 instead of the present $15; that all small game go out of season on the same day; that there be a recess of several days after the closing of the small game season and the opening of the large game season; that the money derived from the increase in non-resident fees and from large game hunting be set aside for the payment of damages done by deer and other large game to gardens and orchards of farmers.

Election was held and the following officers for the coming year were chosen: President, R. J. McKee, Scottdale; vice-president, William Matthews, secretary, Dr. J. R. Madden; corresponding secretary, Attorney Eugene Warden, treasurer, Ralph Miller.

Committees appointed are: Game, William Galley, C. A. Springer, J. R. Madden, R. N. Miller, R. J. McKee, F. J. Gradler and Orrin Zuck. fish, R. N. Miller, William Eberhart, William Matthews, Clyde Lowe, J. A. Suter, Arthur Sheppard, Thomas Galley, Gay Reese and R. J. McKee; membership, Leo Shaw, R. J. McKee, William Matthews, R. N. Miller, W. C. Galley and Clyde Lowe.

It was decided to rearrange and rewrite the by-laws and constitution. The committee appointed for this is made up of Eugene Warden, R. N. Miller, Charles Stoner and C. A. Graul.

The next meetnig will be a smoker and get-together session in January. The committee in charge of this is William Matthews, R. N. Miller and W. C. Galley. A publicity committee, composed of Dr. J. R. Madden, Eugene Warden and W. C. Galley has been named.

Firemen Name Officers.

The Mount Pleasant Fire Department held its annual election of officers last evening, when the following were chosen: Chief, Arthur Gearhart; assistant chief, Glenn Harrison; president, James Olinger; vice-president, Joe Painter, secretary, Charles Moore, assistant secretary, L. Fox; treasurer, August Robinslaw.

COMPERS' PASSING A CRITICAL POINT IN LABOR HISTORY

his occasional waverings and even reversals know that with Gompers the end justified the means and that he usually was vindicated.

For many years as Gompers has been advancing toward the end of his career, the leaders of the labor movement have been discussing what would happen when he left. It has not been unlike the discussion of 20 years ago as to what would happen to the loosely constructed Austro-Hungarian monarchy when Franz Joseph died. Predictions have been made that the American Federation of Labor would split off into two groups—the conservatives and radicals.

There is no doubt that within the Federation there is already such a sharp division but it was the Gompers policy to yield a point here and there to the radicals and thus keep labor's power unimpaired. Will his successor be able to do it even if he follows the same policy?

The test may not come at once for just now there is no extraordinary period of prosperity or inflation. Unemployment is not altogether removed as a factor and immigration restriction is not yet accomplishing all that labor set out to achieve. The real troubles usually occur in a time of inflation and shortage of labor when higher and higher wages are demanded.

Politically, Samuel Gompers leaned toward the Democratic party. He was a powerful influence in the Wilson administrations, an experience however which tended to make him even more conservative than before, for he was often given the responsibility for the settling of a troublesome situation—something that put him on the defensive.

But Samuel Gompers was not able to deliver the labor vote in elections valiantly as he tried. His was a rule over labor leaders and not the rank and file, though he had thousands of admirers in the local unions from coast to coast. He had a knack with the leaders. He showed them often how they could retain power. He taught them the labor politics. It was to his interest, to do so. The longer the chieftains stayed on the job the stronger was the political organization working for Gompers inside the American Federation of Labor. They were proud, too, of the position he won in the public eye, the forcefulness of his public statements and his keen understanding of the changing currents of public opinion.

When some of the employes of the Washington navy yards, for example, implored him to act in their behalf and keep labor from mixing up in the movement to reduce armaments, Gompers was not dissuaded, but gave his hearty support to the proposals of President Harding and even agreed to sit as a member of the advisory commission. He felt that labor which had always argued for world peace could not be inconsistent and that in the long run, labor would benefit through the expanded commerce and shipping of peace time prosperity.

Questions like these, conflicts between administration policy and labor's objectives frequently happen. There is always a straining at the leash on the part of the radicals. Gompers has gone. Will his philosophy and policy be adopted by labor leaders or will they begin the inevitable quarreling which characterizes minority groups? The death of Gompers is not merely the passing of an individual. It is a critical point in the labor history of America.

VANDERBILT 500 LEAGUE CLINCHED BY REGULAR CLUB

Win Over Legion Team Puts Climax in Circuit: Banquet After Christmas.

OTHER NEWS OF THE DAY

Special to The Courier.

VANDERBILT, Dec. 17.—The Regulars clinched the championship in the Five Hundred League by handing the Legion Club a lacing and throwing it in a tie for the cellar position with the Civics. This was the sixth victory for the league leaders against two defeats while the Legion contingent met with its fifth set-back.

By virtue of the circuit victory, the Regulars will be the honor guests at a banquet that will be held after Christmas, with the two trailing clubs as the hosts.

Three more games remain to be played. Friday evening, the Regulars will clash with the Civics. A postponed game from December 4, between the Regulars and Legion remain to be played as well as one from November 21 between the Legion and Civic clubs.

The standing of the league to date:

Health Playlet.

Approximately 200 persons saw the presentation of "David and the Good Health Elves" last evening in the borough school auditorium. School children formed the cast of characters and carried out their parts wonderfully. They were directed in the rehearsals by their teachers. The Saturday Afternoon Club was in charge of the presentation.

Just before the play, Miss Wilhour of Uniontown, nurse at the tubercular hospital, gave a talk on "Fighting Tuberculosis" and showed the progress of the state and county in fighting the white plague. Miss Wilhour urged the purchasing of Christmas Seals as the best means of helping fight the disease.

The playlet dwelt on another way of fighting tuberculosis. It was brought out that fresh air, sunshine, keeping clean, eating good things, plenty of rest were tuberculosis fighters.

The costumes were artistically designed. Forty-two took part, most of whom were about eight or nine years old.

The Sunday school orchestra of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church furnished the music.

Where Insects Are Food

In Mexico live tribes of Indians who eat a kind of bread made in great part of the eggs of notonectes, which are large water bugs. The honey ants, swelled with sweet matter, are used for a dessert in Central America. The natives of Africa make bread with the termites, while those of Brazil prepare them with a sauce.

Several Chinese peoples find caterpillars and the chrysalises of the silkworm excellent food. They are fried in butter oil, with the addition of yolk of egg and other ingredients. The Hovas of Madagascar regale themselves with the chrysalises of the bombyx, which are often fried or boiled. Natives of Australia eat moths, which they pursue and catch with the aid of torches. They are first dried and then their wings are removed.

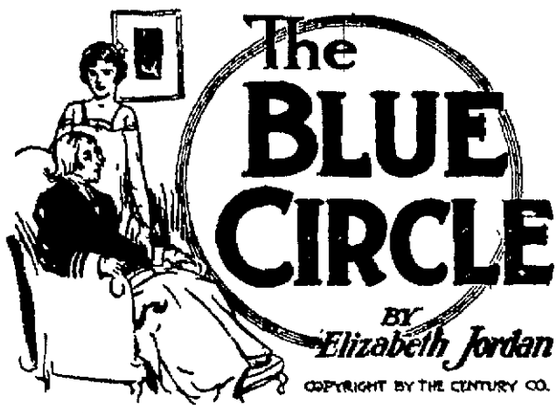
"CAP" STUBBS — CAP'S WILLING TO HELP! — By EDWINA



The BLUE CIRCLE

BY Elizabeth Jordan

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.

"Possibly that's what's the matter with them. Perhaps they see their fat fees departing"

"Possibly. But I don't think so They know her well enough by this time to realise that she will keep on subsidizing them, on one excuse or another It's the way Leoni is made She is the most generous woman in the world. Yet hereafter she and Wanda and Irma may have to live on a petty three thousand a year—"

She added the last words as if she were thinking aloud "You know about her" she asked suddenly

"Doctor Stanley told me a good deal

"Then you know who she really is? And Wanda"

"No, he did not tell me that There's no reason why I should know'

"I have asked her to leave Wanda here with me to be educated in America I know she is trying to whip herself up to the point of doing it but it will be very hard for her Wanda is all she has left, you know'

He nodded

"Yes I understood that But I hope you will keep the child he added more warmly than he had ever spoken to her It would be vastly comforting to think of his little friend as safe in this girl's care

They ascended to the fourth floor and dispassionately surveyed an enormous still given up to the largest collection of trunks Renshaw had ever seen outside of a railroad station Verity nodded toward half a dozen huge foreign built boxes that occupied a conspicuous place in the foreground

'Those are Leoni's' she said They hold everything she has poor darling aside from the precious memoirs'

As they returned to the second floor she described to him the plan of the first, with which however he was fairly familiar Back of the living room dining room and two studies were a huge kitchen a butler's pantry and twin storerooms which Mrs Pardee had so ardently desired to fill with sugar

'Would you like to go down and go through them?' Verity rather listlessly suggested

Renshaw looked at her with sudden compunction

No he said. 'You're tired I should have remembered that, and not dragged you all over the house"

"Oh I'm not tired' In a gallant effort to prove that she was not tired she gave him her first really spontaneous smile

'And your room is all right? You have no complaint to make she added jestingly

"Not a complaint—except that I like a few dozen towels a day and they are forgotten'

Verity looked surprised

"Forgotten'' she echoed "Are you serious? Why that doesn't sound like Annie' She literally festoons my bathroom with towels Her eyes fell on the closet door 'But if she does forget she ended there are always heaps in this closet At least, she's supposed to keep them here—"

She opened the door and entered the closet as she spoke. Renshaw paused on its threshold for a moment, and then casually followed her This was the third time he had been warmly commended to that particular closet. He might as well see what was in it

What he saw was that it was a windowless closet the size and shape of his long and narrow bathroom but lined with shelves filled with linen There was a really fine supply of linen on exhibition, such a display as any housewife might be proud of Verity contemplating it with her back to him tossed him a complacent sentence

"If you want dozens of towels here they are Any time you find your supply short—' She broke off with a gasp 'Why did you do that?"

"I didn't!"

His voice came to her out of the sudden blackness that encompassed them "The door slammed shut after me just this instant And, by Jove—" He had turned and was twisting the doorknob, at first easily then fiercely Now he leaned against the heavy oak exerting all his strength to push it outward It did not yield

"What's wrong with it?"

The girl's words were breathless He had had time to think

"Why nothing at all' he said in matter of fact tones The door slammed with such force that it stuck fast I'll have it open in a moment'

"Oh!"

He heard her exhale her caught breath on the word She was reassured but only momentarily He himself was not reassured at all In his hand the doorknob was turning round and round without resistance It did not catch and retract the lock Yet the knob had opened the door Of course it was possible that the inner knob had got out of order and that no one had discovered it About the only way one was likely to discover it was by vainly trying to open the closed door from the inside All that might happen All that was easily understood

But—why had the door closed? It had been half way open at right angles with the threshold and his hand had not touched it There was no draft in the hall to swing it to Moreover only on the wings of an incipient cyclone could a draft be borne to close a door with the violent slam that had accompanied the closing upon them of this door The motive power of the slam was a strong human push He was convinced of that Yet who could have administered the push? No one had been in the hall—no one that is that he had seen When he entered the closet and for that moment stood on its threshold the open door itself had cut off from his vision anyone or anything that might suddenly have come along the hall

As he thought he worked over the knob twisting it this way and that way, trying various combinations pushing against the door quietly but with all his strength, hoping against hope that the mechanism would catch and turn Unless it did catch and turn they were prisoners All the time he realized that it would not catch and turn And he had nothing in his pockets to work with not even a small penknife

He redoubled his efforts The knob whirled smoothly round and round Perspiration broke out upon his brow This was a devilish situation for the girl to be in! The closet was as black as an underground dungeon and so small that though she had stepped away from him to give him room to work he could hear her quick breathing and the soft rustle of her garments as she moved

That wing was the loneliest spot in the house Even if they made the biggest kind of racket it might be long before anyone heard them Probably no one would miss them or begin to look for them until ten time—possibly not till dinner time It was now three o'clock at the most That meant a wait of hours And in the interval he would have to tell the girl the truth He would have to tell her the truth at once She was plucky She was trying to keep steady But he realized that she was fighting an incipient panic

Yes, devilish' was the right word for the situation It was so absolutely the right word and it fitted so perfectly into the pattern of certain other episodes at Tawno Ker that a cold conviction settled over him Of course the little accident was not an accident at all though it could so easily be made to seem one The shutting of that door had been a malicious action—as deliberately malicious as the actions that had so disturbed his nights

From this conclusion to the next was a short step and he took it as he patiently experimented with the useless knob It was unquestionably another malicious outbreak from that same malicious source

Verity's voice came to him out of the blackness

Can't—you—open—it?

'Not yet'

Ambassador Has Many and High Privileges

The task of being an ambassador is a very pleasant one indeed This representative possesses some remarkable privileges and ranks immediately after the royal princes of the country in which he is residing It might almost be said that an ambassador like the king can do no wrong for he stands above the law of the country in which he is officiating

The courts have no power over him or his servants and even a criminal, if he were known to be residing on an embassy could not be arrested without the permission of the ambassador

Another interesting fact about an ambassador is that the ground on which his residence stands belongs to the country from which he comes

We all grumble nowadays about the amount of taxation we have to pay This is where the ambassador again scores Ambassadors do not have to pay a single penny in taxes.—London Tit Bits.

Japanese "Hello" Girls

Telephone operators in Japan are called "moshi moshi" girls, the term being the Japanese equivalent for hello These operators are required to wear a uniform costume consisting of a sort of skirt called a "hakama," which is worn over a working kimono of coarse white cloth The sleeves of the kimono are cut as full as those of an ordinary kimono and are tied with a cord just below the elbow to prevent them from interfering with the movements of the operator's hands The hakama has a sash tied in front This attire is completed by a pair of white cloth foot covers and straw sandals They wear no stockings, which is a custom peculiar to all Japanese women except those who adopt foreign styles

"Jack Tar"

A waterproof canvas impregnated with tar is called a tarpaulin By extension the wide brimmed storm hat worn by sailors in former times was called a tarpaulin also Usually these hats were made of oiled or tarred cloth As time went on the sailors themselves were called tarpaulins The word was so used by Dickens and many other writers This was later shortened into tar Finally 'Jack' was added and a sailor was called a Jack Tar The popular belief that a sailor is called a tar because of his use of tar to seal the seams of the ship seems to be disproved by the earlier use of tarpaulin as applied to sailors.—Pathfinder Magazine

Resourceful Mr. Beanpole

Mr Beanpole was somewhat sensitive about past failures It being his job to look after the plants and gold fish when Mrs Beanpole went away So this time he picked out a rear bathroom put the fish in the tub turned on a gentle stream and ranged the plants under the eaves to catch the overflow Surplus water merely trickled down the back stairs and under the kitchen floor into the yard

Such were the arrangements greeting Mrs Beanpole upon her return There was a moderate amount of damage to plaster and linoleums but the goldfish and the plants were never more flourishing

Advances in Every Phase of Operation and Ownership

Before a car can attain a success as complete and all-inclusive as the Chrysler Six it must present advances bearing materially on all phases of performance and ownership. No matter how powerful and flexible the engine, no matter how sturdy the construction, no matter how economical the operation—there must also be superior riding qualities and superior appearance.

The Chrysler Six, sweeping aside tradition, offered advances in every one of these particulars. It scored on all counts. No wonder, then, that it won an unprecedented success almost overnight and a victory that is complete.

Ultraconservative India Has Woman Legislator

American and English women got the vote; Chinese unbound their feet; the Turkish feminists discarded their veils, but none of these was so great a step as the appointment of a native women to a legislative council in ancient, conservative, caste-bound India.

Here is a new photo—just received—of Mrs. Doonen Lerkhose, B. A., M. D., who has been appointed a member of the legislative council of Travancore, one of the most progressive of the Indian states. She is in charge of the medical department of the state.

"Tiger" Refuses to Write Articles for $50,000

Paris.—Clemenceau recently refused $50,000 for ten articles on the present political situation, and his reminiscences, offered by the agent of an American publication syndicate. The "Tiger" welcomed the stranger affably in his literary lair, a weather-beaten little cottage at Saint Hermine, on the wind-swept Vendee coast.

"I can't accept," he said. "If I write anything for you I must write what I think, and if I write what I think, it is certain to create a whole lot of trouble."

"There is enough trouble now," he added. "Why cause more?"

The war-time premier then invited the agent to a modest luncheon served in his kitchen direct from the stove to the table, and confided:

"I have just finished the first volume of my life's work. I had been working at it since 1919. The second volume will take me five years to write and the third and last a like period. Come and see me in ten years; we may do business."

Clemenceau, who has just turned eighty-three, is robust and alert and gives every evidence of splendid health.

Detroit Directs Repair Work by Means of Radio

Detroit.—After five months of use, radio as a means of directing the movements of the Detroit street railway department's emergency repair trucks is proving itself feasible and has saved the city more than $8,000 a month, according to H. M. Gould, assistant general manager of the municipally owned traction system.

Before the installation of receiving sets on the trucks, the trucks would make temporary repairs upon call, then return to their stations to await further calls. A construction truck followed as soon as possible to make permanent repairs.

Later, an attempt to have the emergency trucks complete the job and telephone for further orders proved impracticable.

Last May, after two years occupied in designing and installing special receiving equipment on trucks and gaining government permission to have the police station, KOP, forward orders to the trucks, the radio method of transmission of orders was instituted.

Deepest Spot in Ocean Yet Found Is Six Miles

Washington.—The deepest place yet located in any ocean has just been sounded in the Pacific 50 miles off the Japanese coast.

It was announced by the geological survey that a Japanese man-of-war, the Manchu, made the soundings, to a depth of 32,044 feet, or more than six and one-fourth miles, without touching bottom. How much deeper the ocean bed lies there could not be determined, because the sounding wire carried by the ship was not long enough.

The greatest depth previously recorded was off the coast of Mindanao, Philippine Islands, where bottom was reached at 32,118 feet.
